Dear Customer,

Red Gold potatoes are an early variety, and break dormancy earlier than most other potatoes. If you receive potatoes that are softer than normal and have a dark ring on the inside when cut open, this means that they have started to break dormancy and soften-up in preparation for growth. This is not a disease and will not affect the way your potatoes grow. They do not need any special handling upon arrival. Store in cool, dark, humid, ventilated conditions until they can be planted.
